How to Clean Your Ice Box.

The August Woman's Home Companon says:

"You will want a pan of water boiling on the stove, a bottle brush, and cleaning cloths. Choose a time when the ice and wrap it in a clean towel or absorbent paper. Take out the drain pipe and the Maurice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel trays on which the ice rests. Scrub them them into the boiling water. Let them boil while you wipe out the ice compartnecessary, for no grease goes into this compartment-then follow the damp cloth with a dry one. Take the trays and drain pipe out of the boiling water Rev. Charles Frank Crathern, whose and drop them into a pan of cold water to chill. Wipe them as dry as possible, return them to the ice compartment and replace the ice. Drying the ice trays may seem foolish, but it is good economy of ice and food as well as good bacteriology. Empty and clean your drip pan, or if your refrigerator is connected with a drain in the floor clean that. Remember that water in the drip pan is simply stagnant water in a dark place, a favorite medium for all sorts of organisms. A very little chloride of lime will help
